FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Rene A. Wormser, New York, N. Y., and Sanford M. Stoddard, Salt Lake City, Utah, are among the attorneys slated to speak at the Tax Institute sponsored annually by the Montana State University School of Law. The institute will meet on campus Dec. 1 and 2, according to Prof. Lester R. Rusoff, director.

Wormser's topic will be "The Use of Trusts in Estate Planning," and Stoddard's will be "Interpretation of Tax Statutes."

Wormser is the author of "Family Estate Planning," "Wormser's Guide to Estate Planning," "Planning and Administering an Estate" and other books. He is chairman of the Advanced Estate Planning Panels of the Practicing Law Institute and former general counsel for the U. S. House of Representatives Committee to Investigate Tax Exempt Foundations. From 1945 to 55 he was a member of the Advisory Committee of the New York University Federal Tax Institute.

The tax expert is a member of the New York law firm of Wormser, Koch, Kiely and Allessandroni. He holds undergraduate and law degrees from Columbia University.

Stoddard was an attorney in the Office of Chief Counsel of the Internal Revenue Service in Washington, D. C., before he entered private practice in Salt Lake in 1952. He is now a member of the Salt Lake firm of Fabian, Clendenin, Mabey, Billings and Stoddard.

He is chairman of the Utah State Bar Committee on Unauthorized Practice of the Law and past chairman of the Utah Bar Tax Section. He has participated in tax institutes throughout the West, including the MSU Tax Institute in 1959. He earned A. B. and J. D. degrees from the State University of Iowa.
